

E. J. JURGENSEN AND HIS CLOSELY KEPT SECRETS

Assignment of Broad Street Broker Filed in County Court by Mistake and Papers Withdrawn Almost Immediately.

MISLED BY DARK OUTLOOK. BUT HE IS NOW ALL RIGHT.

Some One Was Too Hasty. He Says, and Acted Without Consulting Him, but He Has Arranged to Tide Over.

A great deal of excitement was caused on the Stock Exchange today by the report of the assignment of E. J. Jurgensen, a broker, of No. 20 Broad street.

Before the news had fairly got around the financial section announcement was made that the assignment had been withdrawn, and that Jurgensen continues to be a member of the Stock Exchange in good standing.

Assignment papers were filed at the office of the County Clerk a few minutes after the market opened. A clerk in Jurgensen's office attended to the matter. The papers related that the assignees for the benefit of creditors were Howell H. Barnes and that Stern & Rushmore were the attorneys in the case.

The news was on the ticker almost as soon as it was alive. Then came another ticker announcement contradicting the first. The second message caused more talk than the other.

Mr. Jurgensen was seen at his office by an Evening World reporter and asked to explain the tangle. He was perplexed, but there was a smile on his smooth face.

"It was all a mistake," he said. "Things didn't look exactly right and somebody got a little hasty. The assignment was filed without consulting me. Since then I have raised the wind, the outlook has cleared and I think I will pull through all right."

Jurgensen is a young man. His home is in New Rochelle. He has been a member of the Stock Exchange since 1907, but has never figured prominently in the market.

A member of the firm of Stern & Rushmore professed surprise when informed by an Evening World reporter that the assignment had been cancelled by Jurgensen.

"This is certainly news to us," he remarked. "The assignment was made over Sunday and was made in good faith."

Heavy Losses Force Big Boston House to the Wall.

BOSTON, Aug. 24.—J. P. Jordan and Co., wholesale paper dealers, of No. 20 Congress street, Boston, assigned today for the benefit of creditors, naming Charles H. Davenport, of Holyoke, and Frank W. Tibbets, of Boston, as assignees.

The trouble is attributed to impairment of credit and heavy losses. A meeting of creditors has been called for Sept. 1.

The President of the corporation is J. P. Jordan. T. H. Hubbard is Vice-President and P. B. Jordan Secretary. The company did a large business in the West, where H. E. Wright is the agent. Besides handling paper and cardboard at wholesale the company was engaged in the manufacturing industry to some extent.

PRICES DOMINATED BY BEARISH SENTIMENT IN FINAL DEALINGS

And Some of the Leaders Suffer Distinct Cuts.

WESTERN ROADS SHOW LIFE.

St. Paul Heads the Group in Trading, but Falls to Gain—New York Central Gets a Severe Slash—Copper and Sugar Make Advances.

There was little life in stocks today and prices, which moved slowly in an irregular way, were finally dominated by a bearish sentiment that was an underlying factor during the session.

St. Paul made the best showing in trading, while the other Western Stocks gave some evidence of recuperative strength on the favorable news over Sunday, concerning the corn crop.

There was an early report in Wall street that an out-of-town trust company was about to sell a life of Missouri Pacific, and several large blocks of the stock did not move, but it was all well taken and the Gould issue rose in a subsequent rally.

Amalgamated Copper, which made a good showing during the day, was a year up at the outset, and while the stock could explain why the stock was on sale, quite a lot of the stock came out in small offerings.

Denver and Rio Grande lost 1-4 and the Pennsylvania and Rock Island fell 1-8. Norfolk and Western was down 1-2 and Ontario and Western, Reading and United States Leather, St. Louis and St. Paul, and Union Pacific closed down 1-4 to 1-2.

The closing quotations, and net changes from Saturday's closing prices or from last recorded sale are as follows:

Am. Sugar & Ref.	47 1/2	49 1/2	47 1/2	49 1/2
Am. Smelt. & Ref.	90 1/2	90 1/2	90 1/2	90 1/2

THE WHEAT MARKET.

The heavy rains in the spring wheat States where harvesting is still incomplete, have caused a general decline in prices.

THE COTTON MARKET.

The local cotton market opened firm today, with prices generally lower to 10 cents.

Prices were generally lower to 10 cents.

HORSE RUNS AWAY FROM FIFTH AVENUE

Street and Plunges into Stage Filled with Women.

TWO MEN BADLY INJURED.

Frail Krieger Makes a Gallant Effort to Stop the Frightened Animal by Leaping from a Car, but He is Dragged Many Feet.

Women promenaders at the intersection of Fifth Avenue and Broadway were startled by a horse which ran into a stage.

As the frightened animal passed the Fifth Avenue Hotel it narrowly missed a private carriage and a car. Then a butcher's cart came down Broadway, driven by Fred Krieger, of No. 147 Min.

Krieger pulled his cart across the path of the runaway and made a leap for the animal's bridle. Krieger, owing to the suddenness of the attack, was dragged off his feet and carried helplessly with the mad rush of the powerful runaway.

Krieger was forced to release his hold and fell to the roadway, where he was struck by the hoofs of the animal and severely injured internally.

The runaway continued its career northward until Twenty-fifth street, where it dashed into a Fifth Avenue stage filled with women passengers.

George Rudolf, of No. 714 East One Hundred and Forty-seventh street, driver of the runaway, who was vainly tugging at the lines, was thrown from his seat by the impact and landed under the wheels of the stage, which fortunately was stopped in time to avoid killing him.

Two petrioles grabbed the runaway, bringing him to a standstill half a block west of the intersection.

An ambulance from the New York Hospital, which was called by Rudolf and Krieger, arrived at the scene.

Rudolf said that the horse was frightened by the noise of a truck laden with long steel rods, which created a great din, causing his horse to become unmanageable.

TRAIN PLUNGED OVER HIGH BLUFF

One Passenger Killed and Thirty Injured on Chicago Northwestern Road When All the Cars Left the Tracks.

The crash occurred before dawn and the occupants of the sleepers were still in their berths. Most of those injured were in the sleepers, some of the passengers being badly hurt.

SOUGHT $500,000 DEFENSE BACK

Marriage Schemers Tried to Secure that Sum from Larisch-Moennich and They Have Been Placed Under Arrest.

WED RICH MAN'S DAUGHTER.

She Was Miss Satterfield, of Buffalo—Plotter Had Tried to Secure for Him the Hand of Miss Faber, Who Was Rich.

BERLIN, Aug. 24.—The divorce and marriage brokers who have been hunting for Count Franz Joseph Maria Larisch-Moennich since his marriage to Miss Marie Satterfield, daughter of the Standard Oil millionaire, of which he has been estranged here and will be brought to trial.

Some time before Count Larisch-Moennich started America the accused person sought they supplied him with funds to go to New York and court the daughter of Faber, the pencil manufacturer, and that the Count signed a check for $500,000 payable on condition that he married Miss Faber.

He went to New York, it is further alleged, properly supplied with cash, and paid his addresses to Miss Faber, but was not accepted. Later the Count went to America, presumably at his own expense, and eventually married Miss Satterfield in June, 1901.

The group which avers that it financed the Faber affair demanded $500,000 not on the condition of marriage, but on another, which is insisted, Count Larisch-Moennich signed and which he refused to pay.

The Public Prosecutor was informed of the case by some one whose name does not appear, and the matter was investigated, with the result that the Public Prosecutor has instituted proceedings against a merchant, referred to as "B," in the statements given to the press, and against a retired cavalry captain. The trial has been set for the Autumn term of the Criminal Court.

Count Larisch-Moennich is a member of the Austrian nobility. His father has an estate near Aschaff, Prussia, and has become a naturalized German.

The Count is well known in New York society, having been here on two occasions. He is the nephew of the murdered Empress Elizabeth of Austria. He has no fortune of his own. It is understood that when he married Miss Satterfield, his father-in-law settled a large sum on him.

GOT MRS. BENEDICT'S $700 ERMINE CAPE

"Gentleman George," the Polit Burglar, Gave Clothing Stolen by Him from Rich Ladies to His Wife.

The claim of "Gentleman George," the polit burglar, who made a specialty of robbing the rich, that the thousands of dollars' worth of apparel and jewelry found in his flat were bought by his wife with her own money was disproved today.

George W. Zunkle, of Pond du Lac, was killed and Conductor May, of Chicago, and thirty passengers were injured.

The entire train, express car, baggage, two coaches and three sleepers were thrown down a twenty-foot embankment.

Principal Street Has Been Named the Boulevard de Pierpont Morgan.

FOUND SEWARD WEBB WELL.

He Didn't Change His Ideas About Roosevelt, and Believes Wall Street is Settling Down to a Normal Price Basis.

Senator Chauncey M. Depew, known for his conservative views, was seen today by a reporter on his way to the White Star liner, which reached this port today.

"What do you think they call it?" he asked, as he passed the customs inspector that the pelicans were made in New York and therefore undisturbed.

Nothing less than the Boulevard de Pierpont Morgan. Whenever Mrs. Depew or myself wanted to go shopping in Aix-les-Bains, we had to go tramping up and down the Boulevard de Pierpont Morgan. It was a great sensation. You don't know how much better an American feels to order the cabman to drive to No. 20 Boulevard de Pierpont Morgan than to say, 'Take me to No. 66 Main street.' I believe Mr. Morgan did something handsome by Aix-les-Bains a few years ago, and so they named it after him.

Went Over for the Baths.

"I went to Aix-les-Bains because I wanted to try the baths for my rheumatism. I didn't have much of an attack when I went there, but I hadn't a couple of days when I was seized with the most severe attack I ever experienced. My wife consulted all the physicians of fashion in Paris. The Senator continued, 'and purchased several stunning gowns.'"

"Did I make any speeches while abroad? Yes, three. I made three speeches in a week in London. It was great fun. I attended the Wilson International banquet and made a speech. I attended the Pilgrims' banquet, another speech; the Fourth of July banquet, and still another speech, and the Lord Mayor's banquet, with a speech."

"How about the reconciliation of the Vanderbilts family?" the Senator was asked.

"Not a word," he replied. "For thirty years I've kept my mouth shut about the Vanderbilts, and you will have to see Alfred Gwynne about that."

"It was said that Dr. Seward Webb was dying in London when you went abroad?" the Senator was told.

Seward Webb in Good Health.

"Yes, I know the papers said so," answered the Senator. "But I found him in good health in London."

"How about politics, Senator?"

"I am of the same opinion as when I went away. It will be Roosevelt in 1904 by acclamation. He has made a good President and has the confidence of his party. There will be some strong man chosen for second year, but I can't say who."
